Dr. Williams vacates Murray School post

Confirming reports that have been circulating for the past several weeks, Dr. Don Williams this week advised the Murray School District board of trustees that he will take extended sick leave as the first step toward vacating that post as superintendent for the system that serves Dublin and part of Pleasanton.

The Times reported earlier that the school board had renewed Dr. Williams contract on the condition that he submit his resignation in 1977, and release the district to search for a new superintendent. His new salary, in excess of $35,000, will continue until his sick leave runs out.

VALLEY NEWS BRIEFS

Planners to draw crowd

A large contingent of Valley residents is expected at next Tuesday's county planning commission meeting, when a hearing on the proposed motel, restaurant, gas station complex on Camino Ramon will be conducted.

Karen McVean, a representative of the homeowners opposing the complex, stated that car pools to the county are being formed, to insure that all who want to attend will be able to.

Questions can be answered by phone at 837-1982, or 837-5776.

Commissioners will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Raymond to take office

Valerie Raymond will be sworn into office as First District Supervisor this Tuesday morning at the board's first 1977 meeting.

Oakland Municipal Court Judge Jacqueline Taber, a friend and supporter of the supervisor-elect, will administer the oath of office.

Raymond beat 16-year incumbent John D. Murphy by some 1,100 votes in the biggest political upset of the November general election.

The public is invited to the 9 a.m., Tuesday, ceremonies on the fifth floor of the Alameda County Administration Building, 1221 Oak St., Oakland.

Jaycees' tree pickup

The Pleasanton Jaycees will conduct house-to-house Christmas tree collections next week for $1, with proceeds plowed back into community-oriented projects.

Workers will be in the following areas: Monday — Val Vista, Tuesday — Valley Trails, Wednesday — Pleasanton Valley; Thursday — Vintage Hills; Friday — Pleasanton Meadows.

Residents living outside those areas should call 462-5351 for tree collection.

Dublin Recycle Center has also announced that it will accept discarded Christmas trees one day only, Saturday, Jan. 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The trees will be shredded at no charge. The Recycle Center is located east of Foremost Research Center on Dublin Blvd.

What's ahead?

TRAFFIC!

THE CARS AND THE TRUCKS clogged the Valley's streets and byways with alarming frequency in 1976. From the merger of local and highway traffic onto Livermore's busy First Street, to the truck-laden Stanley Boulevard, down the uncertain maze that is Pleasanton's Hopyard Road and on into "the incredible mess" that often marks Dublin's busy hub, traffic in 1976 was very much on the public's mind.

In 1977, city and county governments have plans that, hopefully, will ease some of that burden. But overall, the Valley will be doing well just to keep abreast of "the crush of cars and trucks."

For a Valley-wide look at some plans, and some promises, The Times' staff has pulled together this year-end report on "TRAFFIC 1976-77."

What about the gravel trucks?

A study that is supposed to "compile all possible routes for the gravel trucks" as an answer to that traffic problem may wind up producing little more than the same questions which have plagued that industry and the adjacent communities for the past two decades.

A subcommittee of the Livermore-Pleasanton Sand and Gravel Study Committee undertook the truck route "inventory" as a sort of Phase II evaluation of the Valley's multi-billion dollar sand and gravel industry. Phase I of that evaluation was a highly acclaimed but still unproven "reclamation report" which the big four extractors produced at an outlay of some $50,000. That report looks just to the land and the environment, before and after some 2500 acres are mined in the heart of the Valley.

The problem of the trucks — some 2000 trips daily along local routes — is not touched upon by the industry's reclamation study. It was this "Phase II" which has been left to a subcommittee for "further study and evaluation."

Bob Harris, Pleasanton's director of planning and one of the city's representatives to that Gravel Study Committee, recited the goals and the problems of that sub committee on available gravel routes.

"We are looking right now at three possibilities," Harris said. "Extension of Isabel Avenue to I-580, development of El Charro Road for public use, and El Charro Road for private haulers only. But one or more of the extractors (gravel firms) have problems with any one of those routes," Harris acknowledged.

Lone Star, with extensive quarry operations on the south side of Stanley Boulevard, "has some problems with" designation of Isabel Avenue as a truck access to I-580 "because it would add up to four miles" to the travel distance from the Lone Star plant to Oakland markets.

Kaiser and Rhodes — Jamieson, both of which now enjoy privileged access to I-580 direct from their plants via the private El Charro Road, have always resisted opening up that road to their competitors — Lone Star and California Rock.

Would lay committee help?

PLEASANTON — There are enough traffic problems in the city to warrant city council appointment of a city traffic commission comprised of lay people who would advise the council on traffic matters.

That's the preliminary conclusion of an ad hoc citizens committee on traffic being led by Chris Kinzel, a traffic expert funded by a state grant to delve into the question of whether or not the city needs an ongoing commission to advise on traffic problems.

Kinzel said in a letter to City Manager Bill Edgar that other cities have used a citizens' commission in dealing with "continuing vocal concern of citizens for governmental and all four of the extractors would "want to continue use of Stanley and First Street through Pleasanton" as the major access to I-680 and markets in Santa Clara County.

City of Pleasanton signed an agreement with the four major extractors in 1972 aimed at providing temporary use of First Street for heavy heavy gravel rigs but which also provided that "Producers agree ... to proceed immediately to encourage construction within five years of a public road

Action promised

"You can look for some positive action in the next 60 days on new routes for the gravel trucks."

That's the word from George Spiliopoulos, chairman of the Livermore-Pleasanton Gravel Study Committee. Also a member of the Alameda County Planning Commission, Spiliopoulos insists that "we're ready to stop talking and start acting" on one or more of the long-promised alternatives that would shift at least some of the heavy truck traffic off of Stanley Boulevard and Pleasanton's First Street.

between Interstate 580 and Stanley Boulevard."

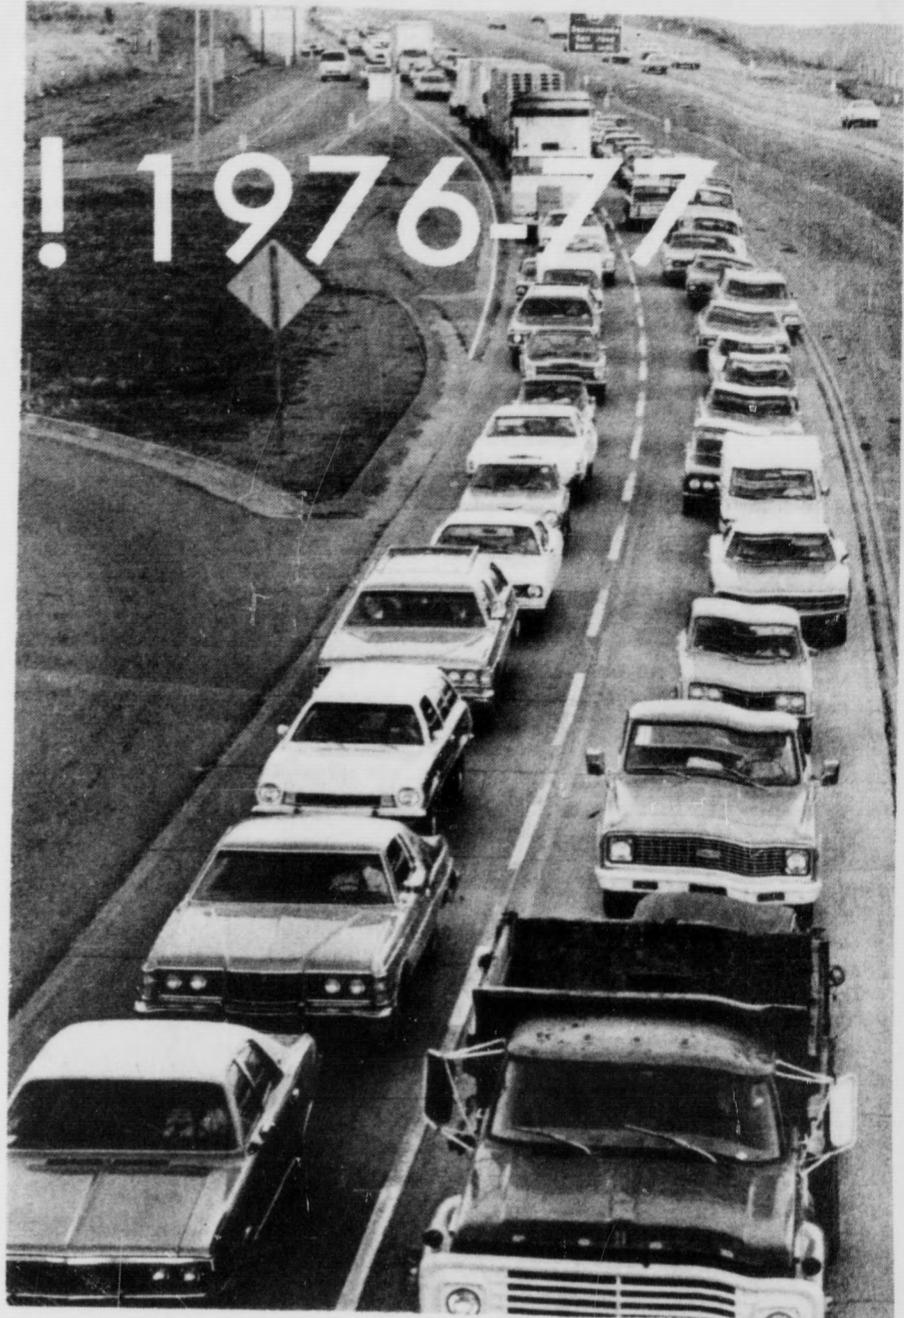

There has been little action toward development of such a route since 1972, other than some conversation between Alameda County and City of Livermore looking to extension of Isabel Avenue from Stanley to I-580. That project, however, would rely on federal funding which is not now assured.

Even if Isabel is extended through to the freeway, there is no agreement or rule which would require the gravel trucks to take that longer route to Bay Area markets; there is however some indication Isabel Avenue, and who don't welcome the prospect of truck and vehicular traffic through countryside where no road now exists.

The ad hoc committee is aware of demands on staff time and doesn't think its preliminary recommendation, if adopted by the city council, would put undue work loads on the staff.

The ad hoc committee will meet two or three more times in January and then draft a report for staff review. A final report is expected for the city council in February or March.

Members of the ad hoc committee include Phyllis Bullock, Chris Caulfield, Ken Geppert, Sandra Gunnarson, Don Savery, Fred Staedel and Alden Wilson.

Council sees signal lights as big help

PLEASANTON — Motorists on Neal Street trying to get into or across traffic on Main Street and First Street may find next year they can have a guaranteed traffic path across those arteries.

The city council already has authorized a traffic signal for the Neal Street intersection with First Street and that is expected to be installed this coming spring.

A signal for the Neal junction with Main Street will be considered in 1977 — possibly Monday night, the first council meeting of the year, when the agenda has a discussion scheduled for street traffic items.

If the council agrees to the light on Main and Neal, it would be the first to be installed on Main Street. The light would be placed on the only street which crosses Main at right angles and that will likely funnel a lot of east side traffic down Neal and Rose to Pleasanton Avenue over to Bernal and out to I-680.

If installed, the light also would be one corner of an eventual traffic loop in the downtown with a traffic light at each corner of the loop. One corner would be at Neal and First streets, another at Neal and Main streets, a third at St. John-Ray and Main streets and the fourth at Ray and First streets. Later a completed Peters Avenue would be added one block west of this loop, adding better traffic circulation near the Main Street portion of it.

Traffic lights for Main Street have been fought in the past on grounds they would back up Main Street traffic too much and would detract from the heritage look. Traffic Engineer Ken Lamb counters that objective traffic point ratings give the two Main Street proposed traffic lights the highest priorities in the city. He thinks the semaphores could be designed to blend with the heritage look, just as the street light poles were designed by PG&E to do so.

Modern traffic-sensing signals can be timed so that there are not long waits for Main Street traffic, but enough gaps are created in that streets have a better chance than they do now to get on to the city's main commercial thoroughfare.

Dublin's challenge is that commercial hub

DUBLIN — Traffic problems have increased in Dublin since that community's commercial and residential population has bounded upward the past few years.

A strip that narrows along Dublin Boulevard in the 6900 block becomes a bottleneck during rush hours and weekends.

Other slowdowns occur on Saturdays when kids are being dropped off or picked up after playing soccer at Dublin Sports Grounds on Dublin Boulevard.

Up the line by K-Mart at Dougherty Road and Dublin Boulevard, a four-way-corner hassle has resulted in fender-bendings galore.

Trying to turn left at several other intersections is done so at risk of life and limb.

But hope is on the horizon, according to Paul Ryan, general manager for the Valley Community Services District (VCSD).

"VCSD will be going along with

Stanley Blvd. has plans

In 1976 Alameda County revealed some bold plans for the widening of Stanley Boulevard, to include turn-out lanes for those trucks and increased safety for motorists and cyclists too.

It is a big project, and one that could take several years, due primarily to limited funds. But a 1977 start is promised, and for those who must use that single passage between Livermore and Pleasanton, "relief is only a few years away."

Holiday play day a success

DUBLIN — Children from Dublin and San Ramon were given a chance to have extra fun during the holidays at Santa's Play Day Wednesday at Shannon Park Community Center.

The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) Recreation Dept. sponsored the event for children ages 7 to 12 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Various indoor and outdoor games and activities were provided.

This was the first time Santa's Play Day has been offered but VCSD Recreation Dept. officials hope to make it an annual event.

There was a bike rally, ping-pong, bumper pool, soccer plus other fun things to do.

Airport unit views growth

LIVERMORE — Reconciliation of population projection figures in the airport master plan and the city's general plan is now in the hands of the airport commission.

The commission is scheduled to discuss the population figures and land use maps in their master plan before the plan can be adopted as an integral part of the city's general plan.

Commissioners will meet noon Monday at the Red Baron Restaurant to discuss the matter.

Also on the agenda: a draft of the Alameda

County Airport Land Use Policy Plan and environmental impact report.

— a report from the FAA noting tentative approval of the airport's acquisition of 13 acres of West Clear Zone land.

— a discussion of the fixed base operator lease modifications.

— review of a survey of pilots at numerous regional general aviation airports to determine pilot attitudes about airport facilities.

— review of a preliminary draft of the six year capital projects for the airport.

Episcopalians welcome first woman priest

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jacqueline Means, a 40-year-old mother of four and wife of a truck driver, became the first woman formally ordained as a priest in the Episcopal Church on Saturday.

The 90-minute ordination ceremony at the inner city All Saints Church was the first for a woman since the Episcopal hierarchy met in Minneapolis last September and approved the ordination of women.

The decision ended a male dominated period in Episcopal history that dated back 200 years and opened a new era in which more women are expected to enter the priesthood in the 2.8 million-member denomination, which combines both Catholic and Protestant elements.

The Rt. Rev. Donald J. Davis, bishop of the Erie, Pa., diocese, placed his hands on the Rev. Mrs. Means' head as she kneeled before him for ordination.

"Therefore, oh Father, through Jesus Christ Your Son, give your Holy Spirit to Jacqueline, fill her with grace and power and make her a priest of Your Church," the bishop intoned. Then he presented the newly ordained priest a Bible and embraced her.

Earlier in the ceremony, the bishop asked if any spectators "know any impediment or crime because of which we should not proceed."

Robert M. Strippy, 42, who said he represents the 40,000-member American Church Union and the 541,000-member Coalition of Concerned Churchmen, walked to the front of the church and said:

"Because it is not possible for truth to be conjoined with error, we confess with sorrow that we cannot continue in communion with any national church, province, diocese, or parish where this and similar acts are recognized."

Then Daniel T. Streckler of Dayton, Ky., who said he represented only himself, said he wished to protest the ordination.

The Rev. Mrs. Means, a licensed practical nurse who serves as a chaplain at the Indiana Women's Prison, is a former Roman Catholic. She attended Catholic Seminary Foundation in 1974 and completed an 11-week clinical pastoral education program earlier this year.

She became Indiana's first woman Episcopal deacon 2½ years ago.

Her ordination is a major victory in a long battle in the Episcopal Church, which until recently refused even to seat women at its general conventions.

Pleasanton priorities

City to improve traffic

PLEASANTON — The city heads into the new year with seven traffic projects underway, all of them expected for completion this summer, most of them by summer.

The projects include resurfacing of St. Mary Street in conjunction with work on the Western Pacific railroad crossing there, realignment of Valley Avenue west and east of Santa Rita Road and installation of a traffic signal there, a traffic light at First and Neal streets, widening of Hopyard Road at Johnson Industrial Drive, construction of Peters Avenue extension from Division Street to Rose Avenue, and modification of storm drains to prevent bicycle tires from catching in them.

The staff is also recommending installation of traffic signals on Main Street at the Neal Street-Rose Avenue intersection and the staggered Ray Street - St. John Street intersection with Main Street. The city council will consider the recommendation Monday at its regular meeting at 8 p.m. at the City Council Chambers, 30 W. Angela St.

The staff also will recommend Monday night appropriation of $1,000 for minor widening of Hopyard Road at Hansen Drive to allow for a right turn lane for southbound traffic.

The city already has funded a project to weld steel bars on sewer grates which can trip bicycle tires and that will cover 800 of them by June. However, an additional 125 on federally funded roads also must be done and the staff is asking that $2,500 be appropriated to take care of them.

In all the staff is asking that $134,700 be appropriated for these projects, which also include $105,000 for the traffic lights, $25,000 for the railroad crossing work on St. Mary Street, and $1,200 for minor improvements to Vervais Avenue.

The city council has set aside $350,000 in the current budget for an overcrossing at West Las Positas Boulevard. It is almost enough to build a pedestrian overcrossing at 1-680, but in a newspaper poll of the community that alternative was not very popular. The top two positions both asked for some form of vehicular overcrossing.

New supervisors set for briefing

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Freshmen supervisors Valerie Raymond and John George will meet with the county's human relations commission next week in their orientation to the committee's policies and programs.

Raymond, the board's first woman supervisor, will be sworn into office Tuesday; George, the board's first black representative, assumed his post earlier this month when former supervisor Tom Bates of Oakland moved to the State Assembly.

They will meet with the commission at 4 p.m., Wednesday, in room 468 of the county administration building, 1221 Oak St., Oakland.

Chairwoman Shirley Sisk will present an "overview" of past commission activities, and leaders of committees on housing, police-community relations, education, employment and children's interests will offer "summaries" of their "purposes and activities."

Sisk said she hopes the meeting "will serve as a catalyst for an exchange of views" between the board and the commission.

Armed robbery suspects nabbed by police

PLEASANTON — Five juveniles have been arrested on connection with a strong-armed robbery at the Hungry Hunter Restaurant and are being held at Juvenile Hall, San Leandro.

The suspects are escapees from Desert Center Boys Camp at Bloomington. They are being held pending additional charges from San Bernardino County.

According to Pleasanton police, the youths threatened an employee of the restaurant Thursday night, about 8:25 o'clock, and demanded money, car keys and other personal property. The youths were charged with armed robbery and auto theft.

Three of the suspects were captured shortly after the robbery near the restaurant and the other two several hours later in the Val Vista tract area.

Housing unit corrects error

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Housing Authority will pay $8,131 in back social security payments to the federal government's social security system — not to former employees, as incorrectly reported by The Times Thursday.

The employees won't see the money until they reach retirement age. Our apologies to housing authority executive director Michael Parsons, who called the error to our attention.

"VALLEY CHILD CARE CAN GIVE A HAND WHEN YOU NEED ONE."

That's what it says on the posters and flyers that are going out to every corner of the Valley.

But a helping hand, as Valley Child Care staff are discovering, means more than finding a nine-to-five babysitter for Junior. Often it means lending some cash, looking for a place where a mother and child can spend the night and taking care of other sudden needs that come up, especially for single parents.

Valley Child Care co-directors Ruth Freis and Miriam Miller are sending out a plea for local people to help. Their state-funded agency at 1520 Catalina Court, next to the Granada shopping center in Livermore, has been open six weeks and offers child care subsidies and other services.

"We see the role of care giver as a whole lot more than finding a free babysitter," Ruth explains.

"No one really notices anymore that women are working, and supporting families on minimal incomes. We keep going on as if every kid has the support of two parents and an extended family when things get rough.

"It's very lonely, very isolating, for single fathers as well as mothers in a single-parent family."

Almost all the 90 families who are now enrolled with Valley Child Care are single-parent households. To qualify for their services, a family of two must gross under $764 per month; family of three, $944; family of four, $1125; family of five, $1305.

Qualified families may send their children to the day-care center or licensed home of their choice. Valley Child Care pays the difference between the center's fee and what they feel the family can afford on a generous sliding scale.

According to Ruth, most of those who have enrolled from Dublin, Pleasanton and Livermore have incomes of under $600 a month. There are very few two-parent households, but men as well as women are taking on the role of single parent.

For some, Valley Child Care is a last resort. In a single week, Ruth came across three cases of a young woman with one child who were desperately looking for a place to stay that night, some food, a few dollars to put gas in the car so the mother could get to job interviews out of town.

"And it's just the tip of the iceberg," Ruth is sure. Here are some of the needs she's hoping local people will volunteer to fill:

— HOUSING: Provide an overnight place to sleep for a family.

— CASH: Donate to a small discretionary loan fund which allows the agency to offer ready cash to those in need.

— SUPPLIES: Donate or lend the center high chairs, cribs, playpens, toys, games and other items the center may lend to day-care centers and licensed homes. For pickup, call Ann Peters or Courine Warren at 455-5111.

— SERVICES: If you're already in the babysitting business at home, consider offering non-traditional services. Most needed are licensed homes that keep odd hours for parents who work a split shift or a night shift; homes willing to accommodate infants; and places where children can stay around the clock for a few days at a time if the parent has to go to the hospital or go out of town.

— LICENSING: People who are currently providing child care in their homes and would like to learn about licensing are invited to a meeting Jan. 3 at the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD) building, 71 Tavarino Road, to hear county licensing agent Max Robison describe the county program. A repeat meeting, for those who couldn't make it Jan. 3, will be held Jan. 19 at the Valley Child Care offices, 1520 Catalina Court.

Livermore Jaycee Wives win $2,000 'seed' grant

A "seed" grant of $2,000 from the United States Jaycees Project Mainstream will enable the Livermore Jaycee Wives Club and other valley clubs to sponsor projects to raise financial support for the Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch in Livermore.

The grant is one of 20 awarded nationwide, in addition to mini-grants in amounts from $500 to $1,000. Project Mainstream is a self-help program designed to develop partnerships between local Jaycee clubs, community governments and other agencies involved in community development.

The program hopes to organize a broad range of community resources: public, private and volunteer.

The $2,000 grant will be available to the Livermore Jaycee Wives Club in two installments in January and June. The money cannot be donated directly to the youth ranch, but must be used to mobilize manpower, materials and operating funds for the ranch's Crisis Outreach Program. All valley service clubs are invited to use a portion of the seed money to finance projects benefiting the ranch. Building renovation and supplies have been outlined as the most immediate need at the ranch.

Service clubs, businesses or individuals interested in donating time or materials may contact Karen Brown at 443-7362 or Katie Claeson at 455-4018. Grant administration will be planned at a meeting in January.

The Livermore Jaycee Wives applied for the grant in November by forming a partnership with Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch to support its Crisis Outreach Program. Letters of recommendation were sent by the Livermore Jaycees.

Anyone interested in being interviewed for the position should send a brief resume to the city manager, 200 Bernal Ave., before Jan. 17 or call 846-3202, ext. 211 for more information.

Pleasanton Jaycee Wives, and the California Scholarship Federation at Livermore High School. They were informed of the award by letter from U.S. Jaycee President Frank Ziebell this month.

PLEASANTON — The city council is looking for a replacement for Housing Authority Commissioner Bill Thompson, who is retiring after eight years service.

Anyone interested in being interviewed for the position should send a brief resume to the city manager, 200 Bernal Ave., before Jan. 17 or call 846-3202, ext. 211 for more information.

Women help women reach for recovery

By JEAN MCKENNA

Her active lifestyle, stunning good looks and buoyant outlook belie the fact that she has experienced the trauma of having a cancerous breast removed through surgery known as a mastectomy. Emily Dezzani of Pleasanton glows with good health.

The attractive and personable redhead is a powerful testimony for recovery in the eyes of women who have recently experienced mastectomies. As a former mastectomy patient who has adjusted well to her own operation, Emily can provide psychological assistance to others on a woman-to-woman basis.

Emily is a volunteer in the Reach to Recovery program of the American Cancer Society who visits mastectomy patients in the hospital or at home with a kit full of helpful information and this message:

"Yes, I, too, underwent surgery for breast cancer when my son was only eight months old. He is now eighteen years old. My life today is full and happy. Can I help you?"

To a woman whose whole life has been changed in one day by an operation, that simple question usually offers great relief and a ray of hope. Here is an answer to all those questions which run through her mind as she faces a new reality — some very practical, some trivial yet serious to her, some highly personal.

Questions like how to cope with all the problems of dress and wardrobe adjustment that result from breast surgery, how to rebuild her self-image in the face of disfigurement, how to help husband or boyfriend adjust to the change, how to do exercises which help a woman regain her physical strength, or where to shop for a breast form or "prosthesis."

Surprisingly, many doctors and nurses who deal regularly with mastectomy patients do not know about Reach to Recovery. Many women go home without the program's free assistance for lack of a referral. In the past, referrals have often come by word of mouth, but Emily is trying to change that.

"I feel so strongly about the value of this program," she says. "I am now chairman of a group which is trying to educate the public about Reach to Recovery. We will show a film, provide literature and answer questions for groups of doctors, nurses or club women. Women don't like to consider the possibility that they may someday have cancer, but it's important that they be alerted and educated."

Emily was among those who set up a special training program for women who want to become Reach to Recovery volunteers. A full orientation day introduces new volunteers to the goals of Reach to Recovery, and teaches them how to approach patients, answer questions and demonstrate exercises. Experienced volunteers often return to update their knowledge and to share what they have learned on the job.

"Yes, I, too, underwent surgery for breast cancer. Today I lead a full life. Can I help you?"

"We learn that each patient is different," says Emily. "Sometimes I talk and sometimes I listen. After the ice is broken, a patient may find it easier to talk to a stranger about very personal things, than to her family."

"We accept the way they feel at the moment. We do not attempt to change their attitude, but simply cite our own case, knowing that our example is often the best encouragement for recovery." Volunteers are carefully instructed to offer psychological support, but not medical advice. Patients are approached only with the approval of their physicians, and patients are cautioned to ask the doctor's permission to do the exercises demonstrated by the volunteer.

The volunteer gives each patient a kit containing a beautifully written booklet that answers most of the questions about how to return to a normal life. The kit also includes a complete list of places to shop for a prosthesis, with description and prices of various types of breast forms, as well as a rubber ball and rope to help the patient begin exercising and a temporary breast form to wear home from the hospital.

But the most important gift the volunteer can give a mastectomy patient, who may be overwhelmed by anxieties, is the message that she is not alone.

Requests for a visit from a Reach to Recovery volunteer, or an educational presentation by a volunteer may be made through the Alameda County Unit of the American Cancer Society at 832-7012.

As a volunteer in the Reach for Recovery program, Emily Dezzani visits mastectomy patients at the hospital, bringing a valuable kit that includes an exercise rope and rubber ball. (Patient in the picture is actually another volunteer, Jean Stuart, who instructs groups, such as graduating students at Laney College, about Reach to Recovery.)

Buck stops

In President-elect Carter and Governor Brown we have two fine examples of that new breed of political pragmatism ... the kind that warns us to "lower your expectations" and to "get ready for some drastic cuts in defense spending."

In 1977 we will see Gerald Expectations and Jimmy Pragmatists running smack into Politics As Usual. The crash could be deafening.

Governor Brown (along with every other state legislator) is caught up in the new enthusiasm for "property tax relief." Trouble is, Governor Brown is also stuck with that campaign pledge for "no new taxes under any circumstance!"

Question, in early 1977, will be — How does one cut millions from the state's property tax income without also increasing other taxes to offset that loss? No way, unless of course Brown resorts to #### that most unthinkable of governmental moves — DRASTIC CURBS IN SPENDING.

Like we say, it promises to be quite a crash. Let's hope none of us innocent taxpaying bystanders get caught in the middle.

Meanwhile, back in DC, J. Carter keeps reassuring us that "cuts from five to seven billions will be forthcoming in defense department spending." But from Carter's new Secretary of Defense (our own Harold Brown) comes equally persistent assurance that "there seems no way possible in 1977 to make that kind of cut in defense spending."

Valley folk will remember Harold Brown as a man given to honest, forthright language. So what happens when Forthright Brown clashes head-on with Reassuring Carter?

Yes sirree, 1977 is not going to get very old before it gets very, very interesting.—

BART

There is evidence that, in 1977, Valley patrons of BART may at long last come in from the cold.

The plans for passenger shelters and benches at certain of the bus stops along the AC Transit routes will be brought before local governments early in the new year. On behalf of those faithful but often frigid customers, we hope bureaucracy moves quickly on this one.

City of Pleasanton has, in this regard, a unique program which calls for "donation of bus shelters or benches" by local business or civic-minded groups. A small plaque affixed to that structure will designate the donor, but no other advertising would be allowed.

The cost-cutting city staff is to be commended for their enterprise, but we hope they don't sit around all winter waiting for evidence of such generosity. The rain and cold are here right now; those shelters are needed now, before AC Transit and BART lose any of their precious passengers to the winter elements.

Household liability

If that maid or household helper takes a tumble in your abode at one minute after midnight tonight, get set for some shocking litigation.

The California legislature in its wisdom has added casual household help to the list of those who must be covered by workman's compensation benefits. Starting January 1, any one who works in or around your place of residence, for however little time, is entitled to the same injury-protection under the law as the employee down at the plant or the office worker.

All reasonable medical care — medical bills, medicine, hospital costs, crutches etc. — are included in that workman's compensation law. So too are costs attached to rehabilitation following any such injury on the job. And the employee is entitled to a portion of wages lost while off the job. If that household helper dies as a result of such injury, payment may be made to surviving dependents.

Your home owner's policy can likely be extended to include this coverage for as little as $5 per year. Or you may need a new policy. In any event, it is important to check with your agent. As soon as possible. As a householder you are now also an employer, with all the same responsibilities. Happy New Year.

...and dune buggies

Another piece of 1977 legislation applies the State Vehicle Code restraints and requirements onto all off-highway vehicles. That means motor-drive cycles, snowmobiles, dune buggies and all those other exotic machines are now subject to much the same rules that have always governed cars and trucks.

That is one law that is long overdue. The environment, the public and our peace of mind will be better off once drivers of whatever vehicle and whatever age, are made fully responsible for that equipment.

Anyway, massive John Madden was in the midst of a reducing campaign. Mousse didn't fit in the diet, so he relinquished it.

The story deserves mention (especially now that the Raiders and their coach are Super Bowl celebrities) because it tells something about John Madden.

That night one of football's most successful coaches talked about weight reducing, friends in the newspaper business, boxing, and a lot of other inconsequential stuff too trivial to recall.

Madden almost never talked football, however. Not once did he bring up the X's and O's and zig-zags that coaches understand, and sportswriters pretend to grasp.

He was just one of the guys filling the air with idle chatter.

Of all who coach football, Madden is closest to being one of the guys. It may be his liability in this age of high-gloss public relations.

No magazines or television networks clamor for his story. Even the local press relegate his quotes to the bottom of the story.

He's just not colorful. Funny? Yes. But John

Bay Farm saga

An editorial in this newspaper the other day wondering why the Sierra Club didn't intervene in the development of Bay Farm Island brought back nostalgic memories for this writer.

I was there when it all happened. The main reason the Sierra Club didn't stop the Bay Farm Island bayfill is the usual reason in any war: too little and too late. They definitely were too late because the vote to accomplish the fill happened back around 1965. The Sierra Club was not getting involved in local politics then; the club was just valiantly guarding every mountaintop in the Sierras. It was to be a couple of more years before the Sierra Club would begin to come down from the mountain and get involved with bayfill and other things in the environment.

The Alameda bayfill was part of the larger problem of fills occurring all around the bay and to that extent it was the main issue which began to get the Sierra Club off that mountaintop. Cities all around the bay were trying to expand through the bayfill method with the old familiar arguments: it's the only way we can add to our tax base, etc. Saving the Bay (and believe me, it was always capitalized by conservationists) was the first great conservation cause of the 1960's in the Bay Area.

The cause even led to the foundation of a newspaper, The Bay Guardian. Redwood City Tribune reporter Bruce Bruggeman was fed up with his newspaper's stand on bayfill (they were all for it) and felt they were pro-developer in their reporting of the issue. So he quit and started his own newspaper, oriented around the bayfill issue and advocating formation of a commission to severely regulate bayfill. The Bay Conservation and Development Commission was formed and the Bay Guardian went on to fight other causes over its 10 year history.

The journalistic story in Alameda was interesting, too, on the topic of bayfill. The only paper in town was pro-bayfill in a one-sided manner. I remember writing a letter to the editor of that paper opposing bayfill. They were so concerned about my arguments, they used my letter in a page one editorial and tried to answer it by saying "this kind of thinking would return us to 1940". In some ways the slower-paced society of 1940 was better than the one we have now, so I didn't see that as any great putdown, though I suppose the editorial writer thought it was the ultimate answer to the enemies of progress.

Yours truly got a little more power a year later when a crusading 48 year old liberal Republican started a little shopping news which he quickly turned into a 12,000 circulation newspaper. I wound up as editor and started covering the meetings of the assessment district which was going to create the bayfill. For once the public got both sides of the bayfill question in Alameda.

Our paper went out of business after three years. A muckraking newspaper that talks about racial segregation in its own hometown is not going to last long in a town like Alameda. But we had our results after we went out of business because citizens movements sensitized by what we were saying reformed the school board, the housing authority and the city council.

When the city council changed, there was a different attitude about Bay Farm Island. But by then (the late 1960's), it was too late. The bayfill had been approved back in 1965 or 1966 on a 4-1 city council vote and construction plans were well down the line. About all any subsequent city council could do was plot out some open space and cut densities.

It's the same old story I've seen for so many years in the valley. The disgruntled citizens come down and complain about the apartments or whatever going in next to their homes. They didn't know all those dull city council and planning commission meetings were convening to decide what their environment would be like five or 10 years later. Ignorance may be bliss, but it's also self-defeating.

round the town

All that fuss and bother about "Who has the legal right to sell the Oakland Tribune?" fails to take into account a much more serious question: "Who would want to buy it?"

Now don't get me wrong. The Trib is a fine newspaper, in its own way. No better, no worse than the average of all metropolitan dailies. And that's just the trouble.

The metro press in total has problems these days, and there's no denying it. For some, there's also no explaining it.

Advertising revenues are at an all-time high; reporting skills are sharpened to a fine edge; and even the highest courts in the land agree that "a free and responsible press is vital to a free and open society."

But the courts can't order the print media to make a profit. Nor can they require every American adult to spend one hour each day reading the news.

Readership in the nation's biggest dailies continues to decline, even as the population keeps going up. Trouble is, the metro papers are tied to the inner city ... home of minorities, low-income families struggling for their own survival. They aren't always in tune with the Oakland Tribune, the New York Times or whatever. Too often, the big papers aren't in tune with their own cities.

The flight of the "white, middle income family" to the suburbs is well known. Big stores tend to follow the buyers. And advertise to reach that suburban market.

So the growth in newspapers — wherever it can be found — is in those suburbs, and the suburban press. Some of the metro dailies have joined that exodus ... papers like the Los Angeles Times-Mirror Company, the Chicago Tribune ... they buy up solid suburban papers or establish branches of their own ... the battle for readership in the hinterlands is fierce.

The several "local" newspapers circulating in this Valley are part of that same suburban press. But we're small potatoes compared to the conglomerates in Southern California, in several of the eastern states. That "little neighborhood paper" the St. Louis housewife likes so much may be part of a corporate publishing house equal to the resources, and the profit, of the St. Louis Post Dispatch.

So why can't the metro dailies keep pace?

For as many different reasons as there are ownerships of those freedom-loving enterprises, I suppose. But throughout all the print industry there exists common ground, and common challenge...

The population shift to suburbia is a big one. TV competition with instant news (once the exclusive field of the corner-newstand daily) is another.

Logistics is an even bigger problem, perhaps the industry's biggest. Getting the product from printing plant to reader is a challenge of tonnage, fleets of trucks, teamster unions and independent brokers, dealing with an army of uncertain carriers, most of them under 16.

It might be guessed that America's newspapers move more tonnage each day than that of the combined armed forces. And it costs us a bundle, too.

Newsprint is the inescapable base of the print media. And in less than five years, the cost of raw newsprint has doubled. To something just over $300 per ton. For a large daily that consumes upwards of 20,000 tons of newsprint in a year, the skyrocketing cost of that print can become a killer.

And they still have to find a way to distribute that tonnage to towns and readers 30, 40 and even 100 miles from their plant. The bigger the paper, the greater the readership spread, and the more impossible the distribution burden.

It is the same formula that eventually killed off LIFE and LOOK and POST and some other very fine magazines ... most of them giving up at the peak of their paid readership, when each edition was never fatter. Which of course is just what killed them. Mailing costs alone priced LIFE magazine out of the reach of advertisers ... who saw diminishing value in ad rates that had climbed to $50,000 per page.

A single page, in full color, in one issue of READER'S DIGEST now runs in excess of $100,000. You can buy a large chunk of TV audience for $100,000.

So is the entire print industry in trouble? Far from it. New, healthy magazines are appearing every year. Most of them geared to "special markets." The suburban newspaper industry is booming, tied to the computer and "cold type" processes to which the suburbs could latch onto far ahead of the older, less flexible metro papers.

It's a fascinating business. With a bright future. But not for every publishing house, and not in every market. For some of the biggest ones, there is very little future at all.

Dr.
Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About six months ago I began having bright red blood with my bowel movements. There was no pain of any kind. This went on for about a month. Then as suddenly as it started it stopped. I never thought it could be serious because there was no pain. Now a friend tells me it could be cancer. Is this true? What should I do?

There never was any pain and there has been no bleeding for five months or more. I am 36 years old and have three children.

DEAR READER — Don't take a chance. Have a medical examination as soon as possible.

ble. Anyone who has bleeding from the rectum for no readily apparent cause should get medical attention as soon as possible. Your friend is right, it is one of the signs of cancer of the rectum.

Probably you have hemorrhoids. Childbirth is apt to cause them but even hemorrhoids can be brought out because of a mass in the rectum and the mass may be cancer.

I'd like to take this opportunity to remind everyone that the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women is cancer of the colon and rectum. It is exceeded only by cancer of the lung in men and cancer of the breast in women.

The early signs of cancer of the rectum and colon are not associated with pain. Bleeding is one sign. Any unexplained change in bowel habit is another. If a person starts having more frequent stools, smaller ones or diarrhea, or constipation and has not had these findings before, run to the nearest doctor — don't just assume you have common irregularity. Let the doctor find out for sure. He may save your life.

The person who is a real challenge even to the physician is the one who has had bowel problems for life. Intermittent attacks of constipation, diarrhea and symptoms that are similar to spastic colon may make it difficult or impossible to tell if a change in bowel habit has occurred.

There is some indication that a normally functioning colon may prevent cancer of the colon. Why? The theory is that chemicals that may irritate the lining of the colon and start a cancer are in contact with the colon wall longer if you have constipation or sluggish movement of food residue through the colon. This is one reason advanced for including bran and other sources of cereal fiber in your diet. For whatever reason, cancer of the colon is far less common in populations where constipation and sluggish bowels or spastic colon are uncommon.

Hemorrhoids can be aggravated by a spastic colon. Straining increases the pressure and may precipitate the bleeding. For both reasons it is important to eat right and develop normal bowel habits.

To give you more information on this I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Spastic or Irritable Colon and Constipation.

Others who need this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing to: The Health Letter, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The ozone layer of our atmosphere, sometimes called the ozone umbrella, shields the earth from much of the sun's harmful rays.

Ozone is really just a special form of oxygen. The molecules of ordinary oxygen are made up of two oxygen atoms, while the ozone molecule has three oxygen atoms.

Ozone is found in the air in small quantities. You have noticed ozone if you have noticed a sharp, ammonia-like odor in the air after a thunderstorm.

Every flash of lightning changes some oxygen into ozone. Most of the ozone is in a layer about 10 to 30 miles up.

Besides protecting us from the sun's ultraviolet rays, ozone is important to our life and health in other ways.

It is used as a sterilizing agent to kill germs and for removing unpleasant odors from the air, as well as a cleaning and bleaching agent.

Confident Kane ready for Shrine tilt

By Gary Brown

PALO ALTO — Rick Kane has no doubts about his ability to play in the National Football League.

Despite being injured part of the season Kane still broke the San Jose State career rushing mark last fall. Rick will get a chance to show off his talents again when he plays in today's East - West Shrine game at Stanford Stadium here.

The former Amador Valley High School star will share the running back duties for the West squad with Wendell Taylor of UCLA.

"I expect to play about 50 percent of the time," the 6-1, 215 pounder said. "It doesn't make any difference who starts. I'm sure we'll all get to play a lot."

Kane admits he doesn't have blazing speed but thinks he can make up for it with his all-around play.

"I like to think of myself as a consistent back," he said. "I don't have natural speed but I've got balance and can catch the ball coming out of the backfield well."

Kane may not have the speed of a O.J. Simpson or Mel Gray but he's no slowpoke either. Rick can run the 40-yard dash in 4.6 and toured the 100 in 9.9 several times at Amador.

"I won the East Bay Athletic League title one year after Albany and Mike Shavers (a 9.5 sprinter) left the league," he laughed. "I can also start quickly and that helps a lot."

Kane gained 1,967 yards in his two years at SJU after transferring from Oregon after his sophomore year. He became the first Spartan to top the 1,000-yard mark in one season when he ran for 1,144 yards in 1975. Last season he gained 823 yards despite his numerous injuries.

"I have no regrets about going to San Jose State," he stated. "True, we don't have the opportunity of playing in a conference like the Pac - 8 but then it was no fun playing for a losing team (Oregon) in that conference, either."

Rick has no preference as to what pro team picks him.

"I'll play for any team, anywhere," he admitted.

"The weather doesn't make any difference to me."

"I think I should go in the first five rounds of the draft" (if there is one) he went on. "But it's hard to say."

Kane considers his biggest thrill at San Jose State to be the Spartans' win over San Diego State in 1975 that cinched the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference title.

"That has to be it," he admitted. "We were playing before a televised audience. San Diego, Stanford and California were generally our biggest games."

As to the Shrine Game itself, Kane feels it will be a good, close contest.

"Both teams have lots of talent," he expressed. Both have good quarterbacks and some fine overall talent."

The West leads the series with 25 wins to 21 for the East and six ties.

A crowd of 75,000-80,000 is expected for today's encounter. That's a lot more than any crowd Kane played before at San Jose State.

"This will be the biggest game I've ever played," he smiled. "When you have 80,000 people watching you you get really psyched up."

Particularly when some of those 80,000 people will be pro scouts.

Mike Cavanaugh of Pittsburgh (12) runs past Georgia's Dickey Clark (87) for a touchdown

Houston's big first period topples Maryland, 30-21

Associated Press

DALLAS — Sixth-ranked Houston stunned Maryland with three first period touchdowns on the blazing runs of Daryl Thomas and Alois Blackwell and then withstood a courageous Terrapin rally to whip the previously unbeaten, fourth-ranked Easterners 30-21 in the 41st annual Cotton Bowl.

The Cougars, co-champions of the Southwest Conference, thoroughly dominated Maryland and built up a 27-7 halftime lead before Terp quarterback Mark Manges set fire to his listless team in the numbing 29-degree cold.

Houston, making its first appearance in the Cotton Bowl, controlled Maryland with incredible ease in a less than six-minute span of the first period as the Atlantic Coast Conference champions' 15-game winning streak was snapped.

With the smallest Cotton Bowl crowd in 30 years huddling in amazement, Thomas bolted 11 yards for a touchdown and Blackwell romped 33 yards for a second score and barged one yard for a third.

Manges dashed six yards for a second period touchdown, but Cougar quarterback Danny Davis answered with a 33-yard scoring pass to Don Bass.

Maryland, which finished 11-1, cashed two Houston fumbles into touchdowns in the second half.

Manges flipped an 11-yard scoring pass to freshman tight end Eric Sievers and Tim Wilson plunged a yard with 8:46 left to put the Terps within winning range.

However, Davis completed a crucial third-down pass and Lennard Coplin kicked a 28-yard field goal with 18 seconds left to ice the Terps.

The key play in Houston's final scoring drive that set up Coplin's field goal originated from the Houston 12-yard line on third and six. Davis faded back to pass, dodged a horde of Terp tacklers, and winged a 13-yard completion to Robert Lavergne to keep the vital drive alive.

Blackwell carved out 149 yards in 22 rushes against the Terp defense, which was ranked sixth nationally against the rush. Thomas romped for 104 yards in 14 carries as Houston piled 320 yards overall.

Maryland, which was the second-ranked total defensive team in the country, had not allowed a touchdown on the ground in 22 quarters until Houston's first period blitz.

An estimated crowd of 58,500 watched and a Cotton Bowl official said it was the lowest attendance for a Cotton Bowl game since 1946.

Manges completed 17 of 32 passes for 179 yards as the Terps continuously drove up and down the field. Twice Maryland missed chip-shot field goals and once drove 86 yards to the Houston one-yard line where the Terps had to surrender the ball on downs.

Kentucky shutouts North Carolina

ATLANTA — Sophomore running back Rod Stewart ran for three touchdowns to lead favored Kentucky past North Carolina, 21-0 in the Peach Bowl.

Kentucky was hampered by the loss of starting running back Mike Voight, who turned his ankle in a midweek practice session.

Stewart's three scores tied a Peach Bowl record by one player.

There was no score in the first half but Kentucky final got on the scoreboard

Raiders leave for southland

ALAMEDA — The Oakland Raiders practiced yesterday at their training field here in preparation for next Sunday's Super Bowl against Minnesota in Pasadena.

Backup wide receiver Mike Siani is the only player hampered by an injury (he has a strained knee) but he should be ready for the Super Bowl.

The team leaves tomorrow for Newport Beach. Next week's practice sessions will be held at the University of California at Irvine.

in the third quarter when Stewart plunged one yard for a touchdown with 9:55 left in the period.

That score was set up when James Ramey recovered a North Carolina fumble on the losers' 21.

Kentucky quarterback Derrick Ramsey ran for seven yards, passed for 13 and ran for three more before Stewart scored.

The Wildcats blew an other scoring opportunity when they intercepted a pass at the North Carolina 26. However, Kentucky fumbled the ball at the one to end their threat.

It was the first time in 35 years that Kentucky had appeared in a post-season bowl contest. Kentucky finished the season with a 8-4 mark while the losers had a 9-3 record.

Dorsett sets mark

QB leads Pitt past Georgia

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — Matt Cavanaugh's passes destroyed Georgia while the fifth-ranked Bulldogs keyed on Tony Dorsett, and top-rated Pittsburgh virtually locked up its first national college football championship in 39 years Saturday with a 27-3 victory in the Sugar Bowl.

Cavanaugh scored the first touchdown for the Cinderella Panthers on a six-yard run and then hooked up with Gordon Jones on a 59-yard strike.

Dorsett, who wound up with a Sugar Bowl record 202 yards after only 65 in the first half, slashed 11 yards into the end zone just two minutes before the half for a shocking 21-0 bulge.

Meanwhile, a storming Pitt defense allowed the suddenly toothless Bulldogs only one completion in 13 first-half passes and a meager 66 yards in total offense in the first two periods.

The pilfering Panthers intercepted four passes in the second quarter, with thefts by linebackers Arnie Weatherington and Jim Cramer igniting touchdown drives of 74 and 67 yards.

Meanwhile, a storming Pitt defense allowed the suddenly toothless Bulldogs only one completion in 13 first-half passes and a meager 66 yards in total offense in the first two periods.

Georgia's Southeastern Conference kings, a three-point underdog, wound up 10-2 but their heralded defense, nicknamed the "Junkyard Dogs," was embarrassed by the sharp-shooting Cavanaugh and a flock of surehanded receivers.

While Majors, coaching his last game at Pitt before returning to his Alma Mater, the University of Tennessee, completed four rags-to-riches seasons with a 33-13-1 record, the bullet-swift Dorsett added to statistics that should keep him college football's rushing king for a long, long time.

On 43 regular-season games, he netted 6,082 yards in becoming the first 6,000-yard runner in history. The yardage includes 1,948 this season, one of 19 NCAA records he holds or shares.

Saturday's yardage, along with 242 yards in two other bowl games, boosted his final over-all figures to 6,526 yards on 1,163 carries.

Bowl games are not included in NCAA statistics.

Ferragamo leads Nebraska over Texas Tech, 27-24

HOUSTON — Vince Ferragamo, who left the University of California two years ago, led Nebraska to a thrilling 27-24 win over the Texas Tech Red Raiders in the Astro-Blue Bonnet Bowl here Friday night.

Ferragamo fired a 23-yard touchdown pass to Chuck Malito for the winning touchdown after Kent Smith set up the score when he blocked a Red Raiders punt.

The ex-California quarterback threw another touchdown pass and workhorse tailback Richard Berns scored twice as the winners roared back from two 10-point deficits.

Texas Tech, ranked eight-eighth in the nation with a 10-1 mark prior to the game, took the lead as running back Billy Taylor caught two touchdown passes from quarterback Rodney Allison and rushed eight yards for another.

Raider kicking specialist Brian Hall booted a 28-yard field goal in the first period but missed 32 yards into the end zone just two minutes before the half for a shocking 21-0 bulge.

Meanwhile, a storming Pitt defense allowed the suddenly toothless Bulldogs only one completion in 13 first-half passes and a meager 66 yards in total offense in the first two periods.

Librarians — leg work for minds

DUBLIN — Freida Batten, newly employed library assistant at Dublin Public Library, says she is impressed with the library's high standard of service and the way patrons make use of the various aids.

"This is a busy library with very sophisticated patrons," she said. "They really know what services are available and how to get results from them."

Batten has her masters degree in librarianship. She has been working at the Dublin Public Library since September.

Originally, she started out to become an English teacher but got sidetracked into library work.

"I'm happy about that switch," she said. "And this particular job is providing many challenges. For one thing, people are constantly putting our resources to the test."

"One gentleman wants us to find information about how to put a deer skeleton together," Batten said. "He has a box full of deer bones and wants to assemble them. We are trying our best to track down the information for him."

Other requests have ranged from finding a color picture of a 1956 Thunderbird automobile to a copy of the sheet music for "I'll Walk With God" from the movie version of The Student Prince. (The song was not part of the original script but was written for and sung only in the movie.)

"We finally found both items thanks to our affiliation with other library systems," Batten said.

A majority of patrons know about Dublin Public Library's connection with the East Bay Cooperative System (EBCS), according to Batten. Any person possessing a Dublin Public Library card can use the same card in any library within the EBCS.

The EBCS is composed of the Alameda County Library, its 12 branches, bookmobile and the Contra Costa County Library System. Richmond City Library and Alameda City Library are included. A relatively new reciprocal borrowing service with the Oakland Public Library is available under East Bay Information System (EBIS).

There is access to the state library for information. The Bay Area Reference Center provides information directly to libraries but not to patrons.

The demand for "How To" books has increased, according to Batten.

"They can't print enough do-it-yourself auto repair manuals," she said. "We've even had people ask for books on how to repair sewing machines."

The economic crisis could be one reason why people are wanting to learn to do their own repairing. It can save them money.

Books on crafts and cooking are next on the popularity list.

"One lady wanted to find a recipe for making soda crackers; another, granola," Batten said.

A vertical file comprised of current news clippings, pamphlets and similar informational sources is one of Batten's projects.

"This information relates to subjects where there is no available book material," Batten said.

The proposed new library and computerized circulation control and roll film catalog systems provide other challenges to Batten and other staff members.

"Working on functional information to give to architects of the proposed new library is keeping us busy but it will be worth the effort," she said. "We are even asking to have ramps and other conveniences available for the handicapped."

The computerized systems regarding circulation control and the roll film catalog are proposed to become operable sometime this Spring.

Boon Acres work begins

SAN RAMON — Groundbreaking ceremonies for Boone Acres park at Davona Drive and Westwood Avenue were held Thursday morning.

The five and one-half acre neighborhood park is being built under the auspices of the Valley Community Services District. Joe Covello, chairman of VCSD's Citizen's Advisory Committee, and his associates were instrumental in arranging to have Boone Acres become a reality.

The park's completion date is projected to be May 15, 1977.

It is considered to be a passive neighborhood park with no space available for team-sports activities. There will be a hot-wheel track and a skate-board track with banked curves and turns.

A physical fitness course with six stations will be constructed. Station number one will be a warm-up station with directions on what to expect from the other five.

Number two will have a balance beam; three, a rope climb; four, a chin bar; five, a tire run and six, a ladder.

Tot-lots will be provided for four different age groups.

— By Sue Vogelsanger

Everyone connected with the Boone Acres project seems happy about getting groundbreaking underway. (l to r) George Cassity, contractor representing Silvertree Landscaping, Inc.; George Allen, landscape architect with William Black of Dublin; Tom Findleton, civil engineering architect for Valley Community Services District (VCSD); and Ann Jolley, member of the VCSD board of directors stand behind Julie and Jim Covello. The young duo said they look forward to playing at Boone Acres. Lila Euler, VCSD board member and Chuck Ladner, president of VCSD board of directors are next. Linda Jeffery and Joe Covello represent the VCSD Citizen's Advisory Committee. Covello is chairman of that committee. Carolyn Hendrickson represents the San Ramon Homeowners Association. The new park under construction is located at Davona Drive and Westwood Avenue in San Ramon.
